The building will orient visitors to the site of the 12,000 Year History Park and provide a space to host educational programs for children and adults. The 12,000 Year History Park is a unique archeological site in Cayce, where history and nature converge. The park boasts archeological remnants of at least 12,000 years of continuous human activity, including undisturbed earthworks from an 1865 Civil War battle. Throughout this time, the area has had an array of inhabitants, including mammoths, Native American tribes and Revolutionary and Civil War soldiers. The Visitor Center is projected to attract 150,000 visitors a year.
